

SCHOLARS IN SERVICE – JOB DESCRIPTION

Fresno State School of Nursing Mobile Health Program was launched in 2015. The program was made possible by grant funding received from the Song-Brown Health Care Workforce Training Act.

The program has three goals:

1. To provide preventative health care, education and screening services to underserved populations in rural areas of Fresno.
2. To provide additional clinical training sites for Fresno State BSN and MSN nursing students.
3. To provide an opportunity for interprofessional collaboration with students from different colleges and programs at Fresno State University.

Contact: Kathleen Rindahl

Job Title- Student Volunteer

Number of Openings: 1

As a member of mobile health team, you will work alongside nursing students, as well as other students from different disciplines from Fresno State. The duties will vary each day, as each clinic site is different with different needs. You will be required to complete a Canvas training module, and you will need transportation to clinics sites. We can arrange for carpooling. Having the ability to speak Spanish, Hmong, or Punjabi is helpful but not required.

You must have regular availability on Tuesday and or Thursday from 8:00 am -3:00 pm. Individual responsibilities include:

- Help recruit and check in patients to be screened.
- Help with the flow of patients wanting to be screened
- Help with maintain supplies at screenings,
- Help document lab results.
- Works alongside nursing students at part of the team

Working on the Mobile Health Unit will require a student with a great deal of flexibility in regards to tasks needed to be completed.