Ronald E. McNair Program

Program Description

The Ronald E. McNair Post-baccalaureate Achievement Program is an exciting effort designed to encourage low-income individuals who are first-generation college students and/or traditionally underrepresented in graduate education to pursue doctoral study. The McNair program, funded by the U.S. Department of Education (USDE), proposes to motivate and prepare promising students for graduate study. Named for the Challenger space shuttle crew member, the Ronald E. McNair Program serves as a living memorial to a man who overcame seemingly insurmountable odds to be awarded his Ph.D. in Physics and later to realize his dream of becoming an astronaut for NASA.

At California State University, Fresno, the McNair Program is divided into six components:

- One-week Summer Session of Orientation to the McNair Program and to university teaching and technology.
- Fall Semester Seminar Series and Research Institute designed to enhance knowledge about graduate school requirements, to refine research skills, and to prepare for the GRE.
- Spring Semester meetings for McNair Scholars and submissions of research proposals.
- Summer Intensive GRE Review.
- Eight-week paid Summer Research Project for selected students under the guidance of a faculty mentor at CSU, Fresno.

Fall & Spring Semester Follow-up geared toward the completion and filing of graduate school applications.

As a result of participating in the McNair Program, McNair Scholars will gain demonstrable research skills, acquire valuable knowledge about graduate education and how to access it, and increase their chances of applying for and being successful in doctoral study. In addition, McNair Scholars will become familiar with the research environment of a major university and establish a supportive network of scholarly professionals and peers. McNair Scholars will be responsible for the completion of a carefully planned research assignment for which they may be selected to receive a stipend of up to $2,800 to defray costs of participation in the summer research project. The stipend will be disbursed over the course of the summer project based upon the successful completion of program requirements. Upon completion of the program, McNair Scholars will continue to enjoy access to McNair seminars, lectures, and assistance with the graduate application process. Two hundred dollars is available to offset application process costs for scholars applying to two or more academic doctoral programs.

The Ronald E. McNair Program at California State University, Fresno benefits from the joint-sponsorship of the Division of Graduate Studies and the Division of Student Affairs. The facilities of both offices are made available to McNair Scholars to ensure their continued educational advancement. The McNair Program provides scholars with a comprehensive program of support and preparation for graduate study. All seminars, workshops, program requirements and research opportunities are aimed at preparing undergraduates for doctoral study and the academic profession.

Eligibility Requirements

- Applicants must either be low-income individuals who are first-generation college students, and/or members of a group traditionally underrepresented in doctorate education—African-American, Hispanic and American Indian/Alaskan Native. (The Federal Guide lines stipulate that an applicant must only consider the educational status of his/her parents to determine whether or not the applicant qualifies as being a first-generation college student. If an applicant, prior to the age of 18, regularly resided and received support from only one parent, consider the educational status of that parent.)
- Applicants must have completed 60 academic units (Units must be completed prior to the beginning of the summer research component)
- Applicants must be enrolled in a formal degree program at California State University, Fresno on a full-time basis. * Special emphasis is placed upon STEM disciplines.
- Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.75.
- Applicants must be U.S. Citizens or Permanent Residents of the United States.
- Applicants must be considering graduate study. (Students interested in law, dentistry, medicine or veterinary careers are not eligible for this program.)

For priority consideration, applicants must submit the completed Ronald E. McNair application packet by Wednesday, May 25, 2022.

Selection will be made on a competitive basis from those applicants who best meet the purposes of the program as defined by the USDE. Special attention will be paid to recruitment of STEM students. Applicants who best meet the federally mandated guidelines will then be selected on the basis of having the greatest potential for pursuing doctoral studies and for whom the program will have the greatest impact. Once selected, students must continue to make progress toward their degree program and toward completing McNair goals and regulations.

Priority consideration will be given to students who meet the priority filing deadline. If you file after the priority deadline date, your application will be considered only after those students who met the priority deadline.

Awards and Benefits

As a McNair Scholar you will...

- Be matched with a faculty mentor whose research interests are related to your own academic interests.
- Participate in a competitive eight-week summer research project under the direction of a faculty mentor from approximately June 1 through August 1 and gain recommendation to receive up to a $2,800 competitive stipend.
- Write an abstract and paper based on your summer research findings.
- Attend seminars designed to introduce participants to the nature of graduate education and to successful role models who have obtained doctoral degrees.
- Attend research and teaching institutes designed to increase participants' knowledge of the culture of the academy.
- Participate in an intensive GRE review.
- Receive assistance defining, setting, and realizing your educational goals, as well as in applying to graduate programs of your choice.
- Be eligible for a $200 allowance to offset academic doctoral program application costs.
- Benefit from a supportive network of McNair Scholars, who, like you, are working toward a graduate degree.
- Have the opportunity to attend a professional meeting or conference with your faculty mentor or to visit selected institutions for research purposes with your faculty mentor.
- Benefit from ongoing support from faculty mentors and staff dedicated to ensuring student advancement.
